BARACA-PHILATHEA CONVENTION CLOSED

Brilliant Assemblage Witnessed End of Joint Meeting Last Night--Organizations Resolved to Employ Office Secretary and Push the Work.

The joint convention of the State Baraca Association and of the State Philathea Union closed last night with a rousing union meeting held in the First Baptist church. The large auditorium was filled with delegates to the convention, visitors to the city and interested spectators from all classes of the city. President D. E. Henderson of the Baracas presided. The songs and special music by quartet and trio were features of the service. Bishop Kilgo of Durham was present and was introduced to the audience and offered the invocation.

Miss Henrietta Heron delivered the first address of the evening, speaking principally of means for furthering the work of the Baracas and Philatheas and of building up the classes.

Following Miss Heron, Rev. Plato Durham of Concord was introduced to the audience and delivered a splendid address. His speech was one of the strongest and most impressive of the convention. He spoke of the relations of the Sunday school and the church and of the Baraca and Philathea movement in its relation to the Sunday school and the teaching of the Scriptures.

The reading of reports and resolutions completed the work of the convention, which closed with the singing of the Doxology and a general handshaking among the delegates and those who entertained them during their stay in Greensboro.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

Baraca Association.

President, A. L. Smoot, Salisbury.

Vice Presidents, T. C. Etheridge, Coldsboro; A. B. Bray, North Wilkesboro; L. A. Avant, Charlotte; B. S. Royster, Oxford.

Secretary-Treasurer, W. M. Combs, Greensboro.

Executive Committee, J. S. Betts, Greensboro; E. R. Carroll, Raleigh; T. W. Alderman, Greensboro, and the officers.

Philathea Union.

President, Miss Mary Rowe, Tarboro.

Vice Presidents, Miss Carrie Broughton, Raleigh, and Miss Winona Massey, Clayton.

Corresponding Secretary, Miss Ione Fuller, Winston-Salem.

Recording Secretary, Miss Willie Lee Thomas, Oxford.

Athletic Secretary, Miss Lillian Taylor, Asheville.

Treasurer, Miss Virginia Clinard, High Point.

Yesterday's Sessions.

Two separate sessions were held yesterday, the Philatheas meeting in West Market Street Methodist church and the Baracas in the First Baptist church. Before the morning session the entire body assembled in front of West Market M. E. church and a photograph was taken by Moose. About three hundred delegates were photographed.

The Philatheas.

The Philatheas met at 10 o'clock, the major portion of the morning session being taken up with the reports of the officers. These reports showed that the work during the past year had been most encouraging and much enthusiasm was aroused. When the union was organized last spring there were 53 classes represented. Now there are 100 classes and new classes are joining the union constantly. It is predicted that there will be 200 Philathea classes in the union by the next meeting. Short talks were made by Miss Ione Fuller on "How to Win and Hold Members," Mrs. S. L. Alderman on "The Social Side of the Class," Miss Lillian Minor, on "The Relief Committee." Miss Henrietta Heron then made a helpful talk on "Taking Care of the Details." She pointed out the fact that too often the minor details are not considered and these are of great importance and should be given careful attention.

At the afternoon session the various committee reports were handed in and adopted. There were addresses on "Physical Culture for Young Women," by Dr. Anna M. Gove, of Greensboro; "Athletics," by Miss Kathleen Ware, of Asheville, and a "Question Drawer", led by Miss Heron.

Baracas.

The Baracas met at 10 o'clock. Short addresses were made by A. Wayland Cooke, W. M. Combs, A. L. Smoot, Dr. C W. Moseley, Dr. J. S. Betts. The addresses covered the several phases of the work and were heard with much interest by the Baracas. At the afternoon session the reports of the several officers and committees were heard, these showing that the Baracas had not been idle during the year just closed.

To Employ State Secretary.

At 4 o'clock the Baracas met in joint session with the Philatheas and it was uanimously decided to authorize the executive committees of the two organizations to employ a state secretary to give his or her time to the world. Pledges were taken for this cause and nearly $500 was subscribed in a few minutes. The executive committee will continue the canvass for funds and it is believed that no trouble will be had in securing sufficient funds to push the work.

It was also decided to take over the Baraca-Philathea Herald, the organ of the two organizations now published by individuals, and publish it under the direction of the executive committees. The paper now has a subscription list of 2,500 and it is hoped to more than double the subscription list during the coming year.

Want Next Convention.

Invitations were received from Salisbury, Charlotte, Goldsboro, Asheville and Durham for the next convention. The selection of the place and the time for the convention was left with the executive committees of the two organizations.

The Convention Sermon.

Before an audience that taxed the capacity of the spacious auditorium of the West Market Street Methodist Church and filled the Sunday school rooms and galleries to overflowing Rev. Edward S. Crosland, pastor of the Moravian church, Salem, preached a strong and able sermon Sunday afternoon, this being the convention sermon for the Baraca and Philathea organizations assembled in annual meeting here.

Rev. Mr. Crosland's text was Matthew 22:42—"What think ye of Christ?" He spoke for thirty-five minutes and during that time the large audience virtually hung on his every word as truth after truth was brought out and impressed upon the minds of all present. The speaker said he was going to ask the Baracas and Philatheas what they thought of Christ, but first he was going to summon His enemies and have their opinion of the Christ. He quoted the publicans, Judias Iscariot who betrayed Christ, Pontius Pilate who sentenced Him, the centurion who executed Him, doubting Thomas, a desciple, and Peter, the desciple who denied Him, and all quotations showed that these men believed in their hearts that Christ was a righteous man and one in whom no wrong could be found. He then cited expressions from other desciples, the angels in heaven and the eternal God, the last expression cited being "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased."

The speaker then brought out that fact that too many people do not think of Christ at all, they are too busy scurrying after this world's goods to think seriously of the life to come. He emphasized the fact that there is no Christ without the cross; that unless one is willing to practice self denial, self sacrifice and give wholehearted service then such a person is not a loyal follower of Christ. The church or the organization inside the church that does not bear the stamp of the cross will not accomplish much in the master's name, he said. Your rating is not fixed in commercial books, but in the Lamb's book of life and the rating is according to the true worth of your service in the Master's cause, continued Dr. Crosland. Speaking especially to the Baracas and Philatheas the speaker urged them to live up to their motto and "do things."

FOUSHEE, BROWN AND MURPHY LEADERS IN THE PRIMARY

They will Run in General Election With Boyd, Cutchin and Sergeant---Election Quiet But Vote was Large---Foushee Given Largest Vote of Any Candidate Having Opposition---Brown and Boyd Made Remarkable Records---Latter Last Entry in Race.

With a total vote of about 1440 the electorate of Greensboro yesterday exercised for the first time the privilege of voting in a non-partisan primary under the recently adopted commission form of government. The vote was the largest ever recorded in a Municipal primary here, but with a voting place on each side of Elm street the people were not required to wait at any time. As a result of the primaries, the following candidates are chosen to be voted upon in the election next Tuesday:

For Mayor and Commissioner of Accounts and Finances—Thomas J. Murphy, Samuel H. Boyd.

For Commissioner of Public Safety—Edward A. Brown, John R. Cutchin.

For Commissioner of Public Works—J. Giles Foushee, Jr., William T. Sergeant.

For Judge of the Municipal Court—Nathaniel L. Eure.

Aside from Judge Eure, Mr. Foushee received the highest vote of any candidate, his vote being 189 more than both of his opponents. His opponent in the election will be Mr. Sergeant, who received the next highest vote. All names but the two highest for each office will be dropped.

Edward A. Brown had three opponents, yet he lacked only 13 votes of getting more than all three of his opponents. He will be opposed next Tuesday by John R. Cutchin.

Ex-Mayor Murphy has a slight lead in the race for mayor, while Colonel Boyd follows only 29 votes behind and will be the other candidate for mayor in the election. Mr. Boyd has gained strength rapidly in the last few weeks and his vote was a source of much gratification to his friends.

Following is the vote received by each candidate:

For Mayor—S. H. Boyd, 408; B. H. Merrimon, 260; T. J. Murphy, 437; E. J. Stafford, 334. Total vote, 1438.

Commissioner Public Safety—E. A. Brown, 704; C. W. Curry, 147; J. R. Cutchin, 393; J. W. Merritt, 189. Total vote 1433.

Commissioner Public Works—J. G. Foushee, Jr., 797; W. T. Sergeant, 446; J. Ed Albright, 192. Total vote, 1435.

Judge Municipal Court—N. L. Eure, 1032.

The city clerk, under the provision of the new charter, will today under the supervision of the mayor publicly canvass the returns and publish the same in an official manner.

TEXAS ELKS HAVE CANDIDATE FOR GRAND EXALTED RULER

Special to Telegram.

San Antonio, Texas, April 24.—Texas Elks are taking active interest in the candidacy of Charles A. Rasbury, of Dallas, law partner of Senator Charles A. Culberson for the position of Grand Exalted Ruler of the order. Judge C. K. McDowell, of Del Rio, and Mike T. Lively, of Dallas, are taking much interest in Mr. Rasbury's candidacy. In official Elkdom throughout the United States Mr. Rasbury is recognized as a formidable candidate. At the last national meeting of the order at Buffalo, the El Paso Elks made a hit and the impression they created popularized Texas with the order throughout the country. It is this along with the prominence of Mr. Rasbury that is making the latter a strong candidate for the highest office in the gift of the order.

SCANDINAVIAN SEA DOG SEEKS SOUTH POLE

Special to Telegram.

Copenhagen, April 22.—Norway in particular and all Scandinavia incidentally is stirred with the news that Capt. Raold Amundsen is actually making for the South Pole, instead of as it was generally supposed he was, on his way for another drift around the northern point of the Western Hemisphere.

When the Fram the famous Arctic ship commanded by Amundsen left Chistiana it was supposed she was to go to San Francisco, then to prepare for her northern journey which was to last for several years.

It now appears that those backing the expedition, including the Norwegian government knew of his Ant-Arctic plans and that he is thoroughly equipped for the expedition to the South Pole.

Amundsen is one of the hardiest and most intrepid of the race of Scandinavian Arctic experts. He is as much at home in the far north as he is in Norway. He understands every trick of travel over the ice fields and it is confidently expected here that he will repeat in the farthest South, Peary's feat in the farthest North.

The labor troubles in Norway may lead to an increase in the Norwegian immigration to the United States.

Already there is a tendency both in Norway and Sweden to seek new homes in the country where men like John A. Johnson, Knute Nelson, and other Scandinavians or the sons of Scandinavians have achieved high honors, and which is looked upon as a veritable land, flowing with milk and honey.

If the labor troubles should not be settled promptly and satisfactorily it is practically certain that a good many of the strikers will go to the new world.

FORMER POSTMASTER OF RALEIGH IN ASYLUM FOR INSANE

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, April 24.—On account of his being a complete mental as well as a physical wreck and an entirely irresponsible case, C. Tom Bailey, formerly postmaster of Raleigh, was today committed to the State hospital for the insane here. His latest prank was to go to the State school for the blind with a pal and represent to Prof. Costner and Miss Davis, members of the faculty, that he and his friend were about to be committed to jail for the lack of $10. The tale was so touching that Mr. Costner and Miss Davis gave them $5 each, which was used speedily for drink. There is considerable property here that is being held in trust for the ex-postmaster's little daughter. Mrs. Bailey died a couple of years ago.

TOWNS

Of Two Thousand Inhabitants Exempted From Mileage Legislation.

Raleigh, April 24.—The Corporation Commission is just now ordering a number of exemptions of towns with around two thousand inhabitants from the operation of the statute enacted by the recent Legislature requiring two ticket windows and agents to facilitate mileage ticket service as a relief for traveling men. The exemptions are being made with the right reserved to order in two windows at any time conditions are deemed to require it.

These exemptions are made on representations of conditions made by the railroad companies, backed up in most instances by petitions of citizens. A complete list of towns exempted on all railroads will be made public as soon as the commission completes the consideration of petitions pending. The law becomes operative May 15.

Threw Away Valuable Stocking.

Los Angeles, April 24.—Mrs. Frances Held, of Danbury, Conn., threw a pair of stockings from a train window while en route to this city. Later she learned that she had left a roll of $1,500 in one of the stockings. A searching party found everything intact.

Saw Kermit in Skirts.

New York, April 24.—Col. and Mrs. Roosevelt attended the Harvard Hasty Pudding Club's shown at the Hotel Astor and saw son Kermit "cut up" in skirts.

LAND WORTH MILLIONS MAY REVERT TO THE GOVERNMENT

Special to Telegram.

Portland, Oregon, April 24.—If the decision of Federal Court Judge Wolverton in the Southern Pacific land case, which was handed down today, is sustained by the Supreme court, land in Oregon valued at from $40,000,000 to $75,000,000 will revert to the government and will be opened to settlers. The decision sustains the government at every point in its contentions.

Carpenter's Daughter Builds House.

Nasillon, O., April 24.—After five years' work, Mrs. Johanna Liebler, of this city, the daughter of a carpenter, has completed a modern seven-room house. She put every inch of material in place with her own hands, except the plastering.

TROUBLE AHEAD IN AUSTRIA-HUNGARY

Special to Telegram.

Vienna, April 23. — There are rumblings of a discordant nature both at home and from foreign nations according to the war pessimist in Austria-Hungary. The Emperor-King Frances Joseph has reached very advanced years in life and must soon be succeeded by a new ruler and a reorganization of the political affairs of the country. From Hungary it is reported that the Archduke Ferdinand is contemplating stepping from the line of succession in favor of the twenty-three year old Archduke Charles Francis Joseph, who, in the ordinary course of things, would follow his uncle as head of the house of Hapsburg.

The dual kingdom at present is simply seething with political discontent. But the aged Emperor, daily growing feebler, recognizes all too well that the respectful veneration offered him from 60,000,000 subjects will quickly turn to hatred and indifference, not to say revolution, in the case of his successor.

The Archduke is of a war-like spirit. It was he who brought Austria's Dreadnoughts into being, and now he is demanding increased expenditures on the army. His foreign policy all makes for a stronger alliance with Germany, set on a war footing, and the dropping of Italy. His sole friend among European crowned heads is Emperor William.

It is believed that with the unrest at home there is threatened dangers from both Italy and Turkey, It is said it was this shadow of war that prompted the governments policy of building a great navy.

CASES IN SUPREME COURT THIS WEEK

One a Murder Case From Mecklenburg County —New Corporations Chartered---Robeson to Vote on Farm Life School--- Capital City News.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, April 24.—"Keep your d—d toe in your pocket" was the exasperating advice of Henry Kirkpatrick to Chas. Houston at a Mecklenburg county fish fry that brought on murder that precipitated conviction and sentence for three defendants whose appeals to the Supreme court are to be argued before the Supreme court tomorrow. The case is State vs. Houston, Byers and Byrd whom the jury in the trial below believed fired fatal shots that caused the death of Erskin Kilpatrick. Henry Kilpatrick, a brother, had stepped on the toe of Chas. Houston and later Houston complained of this act and there was the offensive advice for Houston: "Keep your d—d toe in your pocket." The two men and their friends brought their revolvers into action, something like thirty-five or forty shots being fired, one witness telling the court that the fight "put him in mind of a fire in a canebrake." When the smoke of battle cleared away it was found that Erskin Kilpatrick had received fatal wounds. Attorney General Bickett is to argue the appeal for the State and the prisoners will be defended by McRae and Stewart of Charlotte.

There are eleven appeals for the Twelfth district, the others being Byrd vs. Railroad; Helms vs. Helms; McWhirter vs. McWhirter; Alexander vs. Trust Co.; Carroll vs. Railroad; Williams vs. Railroad; Carriage Co. vs. Dowd; Costner vs. Cotton Mills; Joyner & Long vs. Insurance Co., Town of Shelby vs. Power Co.

The secretary of state chartered today three new corporations and granted one charter amendment. The charters were for the Pineview Farm Co., Fayetteville, $25,000 capital by C. W. Sandrock and others; the Southern Milling Co., Asheboro, capital $25,000 by C. L. Cranford and others, and the Waynesville Supply Co., capital $5,000 by J. N. Shoolbred and others for dealing in electrical and other machinery and plumbing supplies. There is an amendment to the charter of the Austin-Heaton Co., Durham, that increases capital to $100,000, J. S. Carr, Jr., being the stockholder designated for service of process.

The North Carolina Grand Council Royal Arcanum, which has forty-six councils in this state with over 3,500 members, will convene in annual session at Hickory on Wednesday of this week A number of the grand officers will go from Raleigh, these including Grand Vice Regeut C. A. Johnson, Grand Treasurer E. L. Harris and Grand Trustee J. M. Norwood. The grand Regent is F. W. Hancock, Oxford.

Hon. J. Y. Joyner, state superintendent of public instruction, returned Sunday from Jacksonville where he attended the sessions of the Southern Educational Conference, which he says proved decidedly the best in the history of the organization, a specially gratifying feature being reports of splendid progress along all educational lines from all the Southern States. He says the educational leaders came away immensely encouraged to redouble effort. North Carolina's delegation he prononunces about the most creditable there.

May 9 Robeson county votes on the establishment of a Farm-Life school for the county under the operation of the act of the recent Legislature providing that where a county provides a $25,000 plant and $2,500 annually for maintenance, the state will appropriate $2,500 annually for maintenance. State Superintendent of Public Instruction J. Y. Joyner left for Robeson this afternoon to spend most of the week speaking in various parts of the county and working in the interest of the election. The prospects are said to be very good indeed for the school to win by a good majority.

The April term of Wake County Superior court was convened today by Judge Whedbee, of Greenville, for a three weeks term for the trial of civil causes. A divorce was granted in the first case called, Willie Rogers vs. Loula Rogers. There was an order for continuance in the case of Pittsburg Plate Glass Co. vs. R. L. Green and the court spent the afternoon in the trial of A. Eugenia Chadwick vs. Life Insurance Co. of Virginia. Following this case there will be the trial of the suit of W. F. Myatt vs. Seaboard Air Line Railway Co. involving $5,000 damage claimed for the burning of the buildings connected with an old tannery half mile from Raleigh. The claim is that the place was set on fire by sparks from Seaboard Engines and that this is really the second fire causing heavy damages at this place that resulted from sparks from the locomotives of the Seaboard. Judge Whedbee signed a judgment in favor of the Seaboard Air Line against the Northampton and Hertford Railroad Co. for $2,906.

Col. Alex. J. Feild, private secretary to Governor Kitchin spent Sunday in Greensboro for the funeral of Mrs. E. J. Wyche, of that place, who was a sister of Mrs. Feild.

Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes has just gotten from the state printers the volumes of captions of the acts and resolutions passed by the recent Legislature. There is a very concise and yet complete summary of the provisions of each act and resolution given with the caption, this work being done by W. P. Batchelor, of the state department, who is an expert in this work. There are 1,460 acts and 55 resolutions. The volume is thrioughly indexed so as to enable one to find readily whatever statute he may desire to look up. Col. Grimes will send these volumes to any citizen requesting them.

There is more complaint than usual this season about short weights in fertilizers. The regulation is 200-pound sacks and the inspectors of the state department of agriculture have found a number of lots shipped into the state in short weight sacks. The advice is given to the farmers to have an eye to this phase of swindling that has not been practiced nearly so much in past seasons.

Moses Griffin and Link Ray have been bound over to Federal court by Commissioner John Nichols for blockading in New Light Township. They were identified among ten men who 'took to the bushes like rabbits" recently when Deputy Collector Merritt and Deputy Marshal Jordan raided the still which was in operation.

There are numerous special calls for the last annual report of Commissioner of Labor and Printing M. L. Shipman which deals especially with North Carolina's manufacturing interests and some high and notable compliments are being paid the showing that is made and the general "get-up" of the report. One note from a New Jersey firm of manufacturing chemists pronounces the report the most complete volume of the kind they have yet seen from any state in the union, showing the enterprises and resources of the Old North State that come within the scope of the department in a most enlightening and accessible manner.

There was today at the Wake county court house door the executor's sale of the real estate belonging to the estate of the late H. M. Love, including valuable property on New Bern avenue at the corner of Bloodworth street. This lot about 120x100 feet, brought $6,060. It has two inexpensive dwellings on it. There was other negro tenement property sold, the total transaction rounding up $7,160.

Educated Pig Loses Life.

Cincinnati, April 24.—Reuben, the educated pig of the John Robinson circus, went astray and got mixed up with some Cincinnati hogs, to the end that he was sent to the stockyards and was finally turned into porkchops.

Finds Stage Ruling Passion.

New Haven, Conn., April 24.—Margaret Illington, the actress, who married two years ago so that she might have a home and darn stockings, returned to the stage last night in "Mrs. Maxwell's Mistake."

DISCUSSING THE GROWING OF BROOM CORN.

The Greensboro Telegram says that the bulk of this country's broom corn is raised in Illinois and it is announced that the growers in the counties which produce the main part of the supply have signed an agreement to grow no more broom corn for five years unless the dealers will guarantee them a price to exceed $120 per ton in advance of the planting season.

This would indicate that there will be a raise in the price of brooms in the not very distant future. What we can't understand, however, is why broom corn can only be grown in Illinois.—Greenville Piedmont.

The Piedmont is mistaken in supposing that broom corn can only be grown in Illinois. It is produced in many other sections of the country, but the bulk of the broom corn is produced in Illinois, and crop production there is confined to a few counties. The reason is that the soil and climate are favorable to the growth of broom corn, just as the soil and climate of the Southern States are favorable to the production of cotton. However, broom corn can be grown in the South, and The Telegram believes it can be produced successfully in the Piedmont region of the Carolinas. It is a profitable crop wherever it can be produced in sufficient quantities to create a market or where it is raised in the vicinity of a broom factory.

THE PROFESSOR IS RUNNING THE PARTY IN NEW JERSEY.

Professor Wilson, at present active in the role of Governor of New Jersey, is making a remarkable record. Professor Wilson was never in politics until he was given the Democratic nomination for Governor of his State, and the men in control of the party machinery fancied that it would be easy sailing for them if the college professor was elected. Their idea was that he would be easy to manage. Professor Wilson waged a most effective campaign for Governor and was elected by an overwhelming vote, but during the campaign he announced that it was his intention to step into the position of leader of New Jersey Democracy if elected. He stated that in his opinion he would be entitled to the position of party leader if elected Governor. After being given a trial in the office of chief executive, it must be admitted that Professor Wilson has made good as Governor and that he has been the leader of his party in fact and not merely in name.

Governor Wilson has made such a favorable impression upon the country that he is growing in favor as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President; and while his supporters have not gone the length the friends of Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio have travelled, in launching his boom, it is evident that Governor Wilson has about as many supporters of his candidacy as there are of the candidacy of Harmon. It is not probable that Governor Wilson will seek the nomination. He has said that he is busy giving attention to his duties as Governor of New Jersey and is unable to consider the other proposition at present. However, in spite of the fact that he is not seeking the nomination, Governor Wilson is going to be a formidable candidate, and the man who defeats him will secure the Democratic nomination.

In view of the proportions attained by the Wilson boom, merely through the influence of his personal merits and the record he is making as Governor of New Jersey, anything in regard to the methods of Governor Wilson is of interest. Therefore, the following is reproduced from The Baltimore Sun:

"The story of the career of Dr. Woodrow Wilson. from the day he accepted the Democratic nomination for Governor of New Jersey down to the present time, is one of the most remarkable, the most interesting and inspiring chapters in the history of American politics. It hardly has a parallel. This college professor came out of the cloisters having no personal acquaintance with practical politics or political life and made a campaign which for its adroitness and effectiveness astonished the oldest politicians.

"In the campaign Dr. Wilson warned the Democrats that if they elected him Governor they would at the same time elect him as leader of the party. He was elected and he assumed the leadership of the party. It did not seem to occur to the engineers of the Democratic machine, whose activities had for some years been aiding in the big Republican majorities, that this leadership would mean anything in particular. They were astonished to find that the new leader was insisting upon good faith. That which the party promised it must do. Having won the election and got the offices, the old machine did not seem to think it necessary for the Legislature to concern itself about promises. But Dr. Wilson went to work and scored his first victory by sending to the United States Senate the man for whom the people had voted at the primaries.

"Then this determined Governor and leader went to work on the Legislature to induce that body to keep faith with the people in other matters. There were four great reform bills which the Governor insisted upon because they had been promised to the people and the people had trusted the party. These bills attacked corporation domination and political corruption in the citadel. They were as follows:

(1) The Geran Election bill.
(2) The Corrupt Practice bill.
(4) The creation of a public service commission for the regulation of corporations.

"Good citizens had for years been endeavoring to get this legislation on the statute books of New Jersey, but in vain. The power of the corporations was sufficient to crush every attempt, and it remained for Governor Wilson, who was termed in derision by his enemies 'the schoolmaster,' to get this beneficial legislation enacted.

"And as the bills passed it was remarked that some gentlemen who had taken a hand at previous sessions in defeating similar bills expressed their pleasure in voting for them now. The Public Utilities bill, the last of the four reform bills, passed the Legislature yesterday without a dissenting vote. One Senator in voting for it declared it was the most stringent bill he had ever seen.

"The Corrupt Practice act, which the Governor signed on Thursday, is also a drastic measure. It follows the English law and prohibits the expenditure of money by a candidate save through the proper agency, and even the use of a vehicle for carrying voters to the polls, except the aged and infirm, is forbidden.

"The success of Governor Wilson as leader of the party in inducing the Legislature to keep faith with the people is an inspiration. In the legislation curbing the activity of corporations in politics, in requiring them to modify the cruel common law "fellow-servant" theory, so that their employes will get better protection from injury and death and the families of those who are killed or crippled can get relief, the Governor had a peculiarly difficult task. During a long period of years New Jersey has been the nursery of trusts, and her Legislature has been largely under corporation domination."

WHAT NORTH CAROLINA EDITORS ARE SAYING.

Young Debaters.

The triangular debate held Friday evening and participated in by representatives of the Greensboro, Raleigh and Charlotte high schools appears to have been an unqualified success. Each school selected two teams, thus enabling each city to hear the question debated. Raleigh covered itself with glory by winning both of its debates, but more important than this fact—even to the Raleigh high school—is the report from each of the three contests to the effect that the arguments were soundly based on careful study and were forcefully delivered. We congratulate the Raleigh school and its representatives. We call upon the Charlotte and Greensboro institutions to pick their flints and try again next year.

The college man who wins a place on the "team" is honored with the monogram and universal applause. The less spectacular fellow who represents his alma mater upon the platform has not as yet been accorded quite so brilliant a reward. If these trangular debates continue to be held, and the idea spreads, there is every reason to believe that the North Carolina colleges of the next generation will have debating trophies in which they will take as much pride as could possibly be manifested in the most sweeping success upon the gridiron or diamond. Each type of contest is worthy a place in the thought of our student bodies.—Charlotte Observer.

The Boys of Ready Raleigh.

Raleigh is ready. The Raleigh High School boys took the affirmative in Raleigh and won over Greensboro and took the negative of the same subject in Charlotte and won. Boys who can debate like that will be heard from in the halls of Congress. Keep your eyes on those boys. Raleigh is proud of them.—Raleigh News and Observer.

HINTS FOR THE BOUDOIR

About Noses.

When you see a girl with a thin nose, pointed at the tip and high on the bridge, expect (says a student of noses) to find a disposition that is very determined, with a tendency to have its own way.

The long and straight nose indicates a character that is just the opposite. Women, especially tall ones, who have a long, straight, thin nose, are usually very timid and of a sweet disposition.

They are quite different from the little, short, sharp nosed type with a severe bridge. There are some girls with little short "snub" noses. They are generous, easy tempered and pleasant to live with, for they possess that desirable virtue, a happy temperament.

Blackheads and Enlarged Pores.

For blackheads or enlarged pores at the sides of the nose it is a good plan once or twice a week after washing the face with hot water and soap at night to press out the contents of the enlarged pores. Rub on these spots soap lather and let it dry and remain on the parts over night. It will help to reduce the size of the pores.

To Wash the Hair.

The following is a good method: First rub tincture of green soap thoroughly into the scalp with the finger tips, being careful not to scratch with the nails. Add a little hot water to make a good lather. White Castile is a good soap to use and should be rubbed on after the green soap.

If your hair is oily you may use a few drops of ammonia. More is apt to dry and crack the hair. Instead of this you may use a teaspoonful of soda to the first basin of water. The rising should be careful and thorough. Use several waters till the last one is perfectly clear. Dry thoroughly with warm towels.

The Inventable Bag.

No woman's costume is complete in these days without a splendid bag. They are bought and also made at home by the deft fingered woman, and are composed of leather, of velvet, of Japanese embroidery, of antique materials and of gold and silver cloth. One woman has ample opportunities for using at least half a dozen.

The theater bags are very much more brilliant than those for the promenade, and those used for shopping and the train must be necessarily of a different calibre.

There is the bag for opera glasses and one for money and visiting cards, and there is a large, ornate leather one for tiny packages, notebooks, handkerchiefs, and all the necessaries that a woman carries with her when she goes out shopping.

The Well-Dressed Woman.

The "smart" woman is not always the one who spends most on dress. In fact, it is more often the woman who has to do the best she can on a small amount.

The true art of dressing lies in the knowledge of what best suits the individual figure and coloring. Gaudy tints and conspicious styles give a vulgar effect; imitation jewelry and other articles should also be avoided.

A nice neck scarf of velvet, for instance, is more refined than a "mock" fur; and hat trimmings of ribbon are preferable to the "cheap and nasty" wings and feathers which anyhow last but a few weeks.

To the woman of limited means a sound, tailor-made coat and skirt and one or two blouses are recommended both for lengthy wear and general smartness. One pair of really good kid gloves will outlast a dozen pairs of cheap ones.

FADS OF THE FASHIONS

In the trousseau of a well known bride of this month is a lovely frock of black lace, embroidered in silver over an underskirt of silver embroidered brocade; also several capes of cloth, lined with chiffon velvet, to be worn with afternoon dresses.

The band of black velvet worn about the neck is being replaced with one of maline—a new idea and one that suggests comfort.

An attractive hat for spring is made of white mohair, with a trail of pink rosebuds and green leaves arranged about it.

An edge of rat tail is a new finish for the brim straw hats, and is an ideally light and graceful one.

A necessary addition to one's wardrobe this season is a number of scarfs to match one's gowns. Besides being extremely graceful they are figuring as an immensely important item in Paris, where they are worn as a slight summer wrap or for evening wear and dressy occasions. There are any number of styles and ideas that can be carried out at very little expense, and still if one goes to purchase them the elaborate scarfs are very costly.

Nobody Disputes It.

Quit preaching 'round that "advertising pays."
As well proclaim that nights succeed the days;
As well prononunce, with grave, informing air;
That two times one must surely make a pair;
As well call up a friend upon the 'phone
And break the news to him, in serious tone,
That if to-morrow isn't cold or wet
Some warm, dry weather we will likely get!

Quit squawking 'round, "It pays to advertise."
Would you consider anybody wise
Who rang your bell at night and called you out
To tell you that a tadpole's not a trout?
"Of course," someone may urge, "the statement's true!"
'Tis also fact that unveiled skies are blue.
But telling trite things isn't always wise;
We all admit "it pays." Just advertise!
—Strickland Gilliam.

The baby had just been christened and the guests were gathered about the dinner table in celebration of the great event.

Four-year-old Ina had, to his great pride, been dressed in his new suit with his first white collar, "just like papa's," and held his head bravely high until at the end of the first course in a lull of conversation he began to tug at the collar fastening determinedly.

In answer to his mother's inquiring glance he said, "Well, maamma, everyone has seen my collar now, I think I'll take it off."

Little Howard came in the other day crying and rubbing several bumps caused by a series of "butts" administered by a pet sheep.

"Well, Howard," said his sympathetic auntie, "what did you do when the sheep knocked you down?"

"I didn't do anything, I was getting up all the time."

ITCHING IRRITATION.

Worst Form of Skin Trouble Quickly Cured by Inexpensive Treatment.

When you suffer with any skin trouble, even though the itching seems unbearable, do not think that it is necessary to use some disgusting greasy ointment. Try Hokara, a pure and simple skin food, that is guaranteed to contain no grease or acids and which is so cleanly it does not soil the linen.

Not only are minor skin troubles like pimples, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, etc., quickly cured, but the worst ulcers or cases of salt rheum or eczema are cleansed and healed by this wonderful skin food.

In order that any one may try Hokara at small expense Howard Gardner is selling a liberal sized jar at 25c and in addition guarantees to refund the money if the treatment does not do all that is claimed for it. Larger size 50 cents.

Sense in Short Sentences

Love is sunshine.

To make our words and acts sublime, we must make them real.

Persistent kindness may cure the most wayward husband.

A Reliable Medicine—NOT A NARCOTIC

Mrs. F. Marti, St. Joe, Mich., says: "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in which I have great faith. It cured the coughs as well as the choking and gagging spells, and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has many times saved us much trouble and we are never without it in the house." Howard Gardner.

"When does love begin?" murmured the heroine.

"That's easy," replied the hero. "When the author runs out of epigrams."—Pittsburg Post.

The Sound Sleep of Good Health.

Can not be over estimated and any ailment that prevents it is a menace to health. J. L. Southers, Eau Claire, Wis., says: "I have been unable to sleep soundly nights, because of pains across my back and soreness of my kidneys. My appetite was very poor and my general condition was much run down. I have been taking Foley Kidney Pills but a short time and now sleep as sound as a rock, my general condition is greatly improved, and I know that Foley Kidney Pills have cured me." Howard Gardner.

"What's the matter with your wife? She seems to be very irascible lately."

"Why, she was assisting at a rummage sale and somebody sold her new hat for 35 cents."—Washington Herald.

Talk to Mothers.

There is need in the home for cuts, bruises, sores and sprains, children and others are heirs to a real good antiseptic liniment, one which will not burn and hurt worse than the wound itself, and which will give the greatest relief and prevent scars. Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

DAINTY COSTUME FOR OUT OF DOORS; EVENING GOWN OF APRICOT SATIN

SPRINGLIKE and dainty, yet striking and effective, are the new outdoor costume and the evening gown shown in the picture. To begin with the latter, it is a beautiful creation of apricot satin cut in long, flowing lines that are very becoming to the slender woman. They are not as effective, but still not altogether unbecoming, when applied to the woman of shorter mold. The skirt is untrimmed and owes much of its beauty to its simple lines and gracefulness. The bodice is plain also, but is adorned on the upper part and on the sleeves with the beads which are very much in vogue. The sleeve is the new peasant effect, rounding prettily over the shoulder.

As the picture shows, the suit depends for its beauty on the liberal use of silk braid and on the pretty contrast in the colors of the material used. The skirt and Eton jacket are made of tan and brown cloth, the effect being a charming color scheme. The skirt is cut on the usual narrow lines. The jacket is a low cut Eton, with two buttons. It is open in front, giving an effect resembling a man's dress waistcoat. AMANDA RIDDLE.

MARRIAGE MAXIMS.

Quaint Bridal Custom.

A quaint old superstition in Iceland is that every bride must invite all her friends to a dinner in her own home and every article of food must be prepared by the bride herself. If she is successful in pleasing her guests she not only receives praise for her own skill, but helps along her younger sisters, who are then assumed to be equally good at cooking, and consequently have a much better chance of getting married.

"MISTRESSES OF MILLINERY"

ONE of the recent interesting developments of the movement for "practical" education for women is the founding at Barnard college, in New York city, an institution affiliated with Columbia university, of a school for the teaching of the millinery art. It is a full fledged part of the college course, work done therein counting toward the obtaining of a college degree. Its head is Mrs. Evelyn Tobey, a graduate of the college. She is enthusiastic in her work and declares her sincere belief in the usefulness and value of the art of millinery making and trimming. Among her pupils, some of whom are shown at work in the picture, Mrs. Tobey numbers not only college girls, but also matrons and maids from outside of the college and employees of some of the smart millinery shops of New York. The art of constructing and trimming hats is taught thoroughly in all its branches, careful as well as artistic work being insisted upon. The school has been a success since its foundation and is attracting an ever increasing number of students.

EXPLOSION IN WEST VIRGINIA MINE WAS DISASTROUS

Special to Telegram.

Elk Garden, Va., April 24.—Several miners are believed to have perished in the mines of the Davis Coal and Coke Company in an explosion today. Of 24 men in the mines 14 are known to have escaped. Rescuers armed with oxygen helmets, who arrived on the scene, aided bySupterintendent Grant and others, entered the mine as far as they could penetrate. They found the shaft blocked with debris, which will have to be removed before it can be ascertained if the men remaining in the mine are alive or dead.

Believed Miners All Lost.

El Garden, West Va., April 24.—After penetrating several miles tonight into the shaft of the mine here in which the explosion occurred today, the rescuers found the body of a man who has not yet been identified. He was crushed as though the roof of the mine had crumbled as he was running to escape. The discovery disheartened the rescuers, who are positive that none of the men in the mine can be alive.

Gas is heavy in the main entry of the mine. The havoc wrought indicates that the explosion was terrific and extended over a square mile. The rescuing party found the coal split and the props of the mine splintered. It is now believed that twenty men were lost in the catastrophe.

HUGS THE EQUATOR.

Strip Upon Which the Starry White Coffee Flower Blooms.

It is only on the world's waistband that the starry white coffee flower blooms. Only between the fifteenth degrees, north and south of the equator, can the tree be successfully grown and on those altitudes which are between the 3,000 to 5,000 feet mark. Left by itself the plant will grow to a tree twenty-five feet in altitude; but, as man is not usually over two yardsticks high, the bearing shrubs are kept by pruning under a maximum height of ten feet, so that they can be easily handled.

The seeds are thickly sown in the nursery, but as soon as babyhood has passed and the tender sprouts are able to bear a breath of wind or changes of temperature they are transplanted into orchards. They are set pretty far apart so that while young and not yet bearing the soil may be utilized with parallel rows of corn, bananas or plantain. A thrifty shrub grows berries when three years old and continues to bear during twenty years from three to six pounds of beans. Its glossy green leaves remind one of the laurel, and the fragrant, white, five petaled flowers—the perfume varying in different countries and localities—grow in clusters of from three to ten each in the axils of the branches. Well regulated streams of water run through the orchard to secure lusty growth, but when the berries begin to ripen the water is turned off lest the fruit be too succulent. The twin beans or nutlets ripen within a mass of pulp that looks like a dark red cherry, or in tint and size rather like a cranberry. This pulp, when perfectly ripe, is delicious to the taste, but when dried it is taken off either by hand or, as is usually the case in present day operations in Brazil, by most modern machinery.—St. Louis Republic.

Slipper Day In Holland.

There is a curious festival called Slipper day celebrated in Holland. Slipper day in the Netherlands is the one day in the year in which the Dutchwoman claims superiority over her husband. On that day she rules him to her heart's content, and he generally obeys good humoredly enough—that is, unless she is one of those ladies not unknown in Holland or in any other country who aspire to complete rule over their unhappy partners throughout the year.

Badly Handicapped.

"How did your show go on the road?"

"Bad. We were fearfully handicapped by the plays we selected."

"Eh? Why, I thought the dramas in your repertory were the finest you could secure."

"Yes; but we couldn't play 'em."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CREATING A VIOLIN.

No Hard and Fast Rules to Guide the Artist Mechanic.

Violins are the most delicate and uncertain of musical instruments to make. There are no hard and fast rules to follow. It is like making a human voice. The quality differs according to the wood, the seasoning and the construction of the few parts in it.

The violin contains the fewest parts of any musical instrument invented, and it seems like the simplest of them all to make. But, alas, it defies the expert, the practical mechanic and the musician! Anybody can make a violin, but few can make a good one. So, with the exception of comparatively few factory violins, most of them are produced by individual instrument makers, who spend more loving care over them than a mother does over her first child.

A violin maker is an artist mechanic, a sort of anomaly in this age of machinery. With a pot of glue, a few sharp tools, a cabinetmaker's bench and a few sticks of wood he will labor diligently in the creation of an instrument that may give forth the sweetest, the wildest, the weirdest and the strangest musical notes. He will glue his instrument together and then take it apart twenty times to adjust, the fraction of an inch, the bass bar or the sounding post. A creator of a violin may spend weeks on a single instrument and then find, to his disgust, that it does not satisfy. The exact point where the sounding post—a stick of wood only a little larger than a match—should be placed can never be determined in advance. It is a mystery that ever recurs in each new violin.

Then the wood is of so much importance to the violin maker—none of your fresh timber nor kiln dried stuff! It must be seasoned by years, even by decades and centuries. Every time a century old house is demolished some musical maker is likely to appear on the scene and make a quiet bid for some of the thin old rafters. To the novice they may seem worthless, but the violin maker may find in this century old timber just the wood for his beloved instruments.—Chicago Record-Herald.

PATRICK HENRY.

Thomas Jefferson's Opinion of the Orator and Patriot.

When William Wirt was engaged in writing the memoirs of Patrick Henry he turned for information to Thomas Jefferson, who had been associated with the orator for many years, asking his aid in furnishing biographical material for the work. The correspondence between Wirt and Jefferson, published in the Pennsylvania Magazine of History and Biography, from the manuscript collection of John Gribbel, has a decidedly interesting passage showing the opinion Jefferson held about his famous colleague. In answer to Wirt's first request Jefferson replies with an assent and adds a general and unfavorable summary of Henry's character:

"He was certainly the man who gave the first impulse to the ball of revolution. were I to give his character in general terms, it would be of mixed aspect. I think he was the best humored man in society I almost ever knew, and the greatest orator that ever lived. he had a consumate knoledge of the human heart, which directing the efforts of his eloquence enabled him to attain a degree of popularity with the people at large never perhaps equalled. his judgment in other matters was inaccurate. in matters of law it was not worth a copper: he was avaricious & rotten hearted. his two great passions were the love of money & of fame; but when these came into competition the former predominated. If the work you propose is not destined to come out speedily I will endeavor to recollect what may be of use to it."

Modern Kitchens at Sea.

The term "son of a sea cook" is no longer a title of reproach. The highly paid specialist who presides over the kitchens is a chef with an international reputation. The menu at the end of the longest sea voyage gives no indication that the ship has not been supplied from land. Immense stores of fresh meats, vegetables, fruits and even flowers must be carried. The kitchens are incredibly clean, with their tiled floors, glass tables and shelves, as are also the cold storage rooms. To keep a kitchen in order is a far more difficult problem at sea than on land.—Cassier's Magazine.

Located It Exactly.

With his jaw swollen so as to nearly close his eye, a sailor rushed into a dentist's office and told the dentist to extract an aching tooth as soon as possible. After getting the man seated in the chair the doctor asked which tooth he wished pulled, and the sailor, nearly crazed by pain, lost no time in saying, "Upper deck, second one from aft, port side."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

"Oh, I don't know," added the simple mug. "A man may make a god of money and also serve time."—Philadelphia Record.

TRICKED PAULINE.

Napoleon's Pert and Pretty Sister's Pride Was Humbled.

TWICE SHE MET HER MATCH.

The Empress Josephine Once Gave Her, So to Speak, a Dressing Down, and the Fashionable Mme. De Coutades Figuratively Boxed Her Ears.

Napoleon was anxious to have General Marmot marry his sister Pauline, but the wily old soldier refused to make the flirt his bride. Then Napoleon turned to General Leclerc, who really loved Pauline, and they were wedded. Leclerc was then sent as head of the French expedition to Haiti, Pauline going along under protest. Leclerc died of fever in Haiti, and Pauline returned to France with his body.

After a time Pauline, whom Lyndon Orr in Munsey's describes as a "feather headed, languishing, beautiful, distracting morsel of frivolity," resumed her heartbreaking tactics.

"Presently it became noised about," writes Mr. Orr, "that Prince Camillo Borghese was flirting desperately with Pauline. The prince was an excellent specimen of the fashionable Italian. He was immensely rich. His palace at Rome was filled with artistic treasure. He was the owner, moreover, of the famous Borghese jewels, the finest collection of diamonds in the world.

"Napoleon rather sternly insisted upon her marrying Borghese. Fortunately the prince was very willing to be connected with Napoleon, while Pauline was delighted at the idea of having diamonds that would eclipse all the gems which Josephine possessed, for, like all the Bonapartes, she detested her brother's wife. So she would be married and show her diamonds to Josephine. It was a bit of feminine malice she could not resist.

"The marriage took place very quietly at Joseph Bonaparte's house because of the absence of Napoleon, but the newly made princess was invited to visit Josephine at the palace of St. Cloud. Here was to be the triumph of her life. She spent many days in planning a toilet that should be absolutely crushing to Josephine. Whatever she wore must be a background for the famous diamonds. Finally she decided on green velvet.

"When the day came Pauline stood before a mirror and gazed at herself, with diamonds glistening in her hair, shimmering around her neck and fastened so thickly on her green velvet gown as to remind one of a moving jewel casket. She actually shed tears of joy. Then she entered her carriage and drove out to St. Cloud.

"But Josephine, though no longer young, was a woman of great subtlety as well as charm. Stories had been told to her of the green velvet, and therefore she had had her drawing room redecorated in the most uncompromising blue. It killed the green velvet completely. As for the diamonds, she met that maneuver by wearing not a single gem of any kind. Her dress was an Indian muslin with a broad hem of gold.

"Her exquisite simplicity, coupled with her dignity of bearing, made the Princess Pauline, with her shower of diamonds and her green velvet displayed against the blue, seem absolutely vulgar. Josephine was most generous in her admiration of the Borghese gems, and she kissed Pauline on departing. The victory was hers.

"There is another story of a defeat which Pauline met from another lady, one Mme. de Coutades. This was at a magnificent ball given to the most fashionable world of Paris. Pauline decided upon going and intended, in her own phrase, to blot out every woman there. She kept the secret of her toilet, and she entered the ballroom at the psychological moment, when all the guests had assembled.

"She appeared, and at sight of her the music stopped, silence fell upon the assemblage, and a sort of quiver went through every one. Her costume was of the finest muslin bordered with golden palm leaves. Four bands spotted like a leopard's skin, were wound about her head, while these in turn were supported by little clusters of golden grapes. She had copied the headdress of a Bacchante in the Louvre. All over her person were cameos, and just beneath her breasts she wore a golden band held in place by an engraved gem. Her beautiful wrists, arms and hands were bare. She had, in fact, blotted out her rivals.

"Nevertheless Mme. de Coutades took her revenge. She went up to Pauline, who was lying on a divan to set off her loveliness, and began gazing at the princess through a double eyeglass. Pauline felt flattered for a moment and then became uneasy. The lady who was looking at her said to a companion in a tone of regret:

"'What a pity! She really would be lovely if it weren't for that!'

"'For what?' returned her escort.

"'Why, are you blind? It's so remarkable that you surely must see it.'

"Pauline was beginning to lose her self composure. She flushed and looked wildly about, wondering what she meant. Then she heard Mme. de Coutades say:

"'Why, her ears! If I had such ears as those I would cut them off!'

"Pauline gave one great gasp and fainted dead away. As a matter of fact, her ears were not so bad. They were simply very flat and colorless, forming a contrast with the rosy tints of her face. But from that moment no one could see anything but these ears, and thereafter the princess wore her hair low enough to cover them."

MADERO

will Not Accept Vice Presidency of Mexico --Peace Negotiations Progressing.

Special to Telegram.

El Paso, Texas, April 24.—Madero has not sought nor will he accept the vice presidency of the Mexican republic as one of the conditions of peace, according to his declaration tonight.

"We will accept such terms," he said in speaking of the peace negotiations, "as will guarantee to us a triumph of the principles demanded by the revolutionists in the same or in shorter time than it would have required to establish them had we continued the war. The guarantees we shall demand are of such character as to place ourselves in a position where we shall be able to oblige the government to keep its engagements."

The peace negotiations are continuing, both insurrectos and unofficial representatives of the Mexican government expressing their satisfaction over the progress made tonight. Diaz will be left in office and the revolutionists will not surrender their arms. The cabinet and state officers will be divided between the governmental and insurrecto forces in such a way as to insure the revolutionists not only a fair share in the government, but also a protection from a reprisal for having taken up arms.

Young Man Injured in Unknown Manner

Sunday morning a crew on a freight found a young man lying beside the railroad track near the Pomona yards in a semi unconscious condition, his body badly bruised as if he had been struck by a train. An investigation showed that the young man was Vernon Godfrey, of Salisbury, who is in the city attending Page's Pharmacy school. He was carried to St. Leo's hospital and given the necessary medical attention.

It was found that his injuries were quite serious and he will be kept in his room for some time. He does not seem to know anything regarding the manner in which his injuries were received.

How the House Voted.

An analysis of the vote on the reciprocity bill in the House on Friday shows that 197 Democrats, 67 Republicans and 1 Socialist voted for it, and that 10 Democrats, 78 Republicans and 1 Independent voted against it. The vote for the bill was 265; the vote against the bill was 89.

In February last when the bill was voted upon in the House, 143 Democrats and 78 Republicans voted for it, and 5 Democrats and 87 Republicans voted against it. The majority for the bill at this session of Congress was 76; the majority for the bill in the last House was 29. Thirty-five members did not vote on the proposition Friday; 76 members did not vote on the bill in the last Congress. The remarkable situation is presented that a Democratic measure offered by a Republican Administration is almost unanimously opposed by the Republicans and well nigh unanimously supported by the Democrats. This is the sort of bi-party politics that should warm the cockles of Franklin MacVeagh's heart. The action of the House speaks well for the Democratic party.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

BIBLE

Was Sold Yesterday at Auction in New York For $50,000.

Special to Telegram.

New York, April 24.—The famous Gutenberg Bible from the library of the late Robert Hoe was sold at the Anderson auction rooms today for $50,000. This is the highest price ever paid for a book in the history of the world. Henry E. Huntington, of California, a nephew of the late Collis P. Huntington, bought the Bible. His most persistent competitor in the bidding was Joseph Widener, a son of P. A. B. Widener of Philadelphia, who retired from the contest when the price reached $49,000.

Boys at University Are in Fine Spirits

Special to Telegram.

Chapel Hil, N. C., April 24.—For the first time in a number of years the student body of the University of North Carolina are tasting the wholesome joy of a devisive victory over the University of Virginia. In Charlottesville on Friday, after losing to the players from the Old Dominion in Greensboro and winning in Charlotte, the boys from Down Home waded into their time-honored enemies on their own diamond, with 1000 men cheering for a Virginia victory, intent on repairing the discouragement that had come to the Carolina men during the barren years that have gone by since unquestioned victory was theirs. The game was won by Carolina 1 to 0 in the fiercest fought and fastest fielded contest seen between two colleges in North Carolina during the baseball season of 1911.

The unconditioned winning of these two games is an important event in the athletic history of the University. Great battles, whether on the athletic field or elsewhere are fought when two forces of equal strength meet and are decided finally on the high level of courage. The supporters of the white and blue have realized this and more than once during the last five or six years, seeing a team just as good as Virginia's going down in defeat, the Carolina man had begun to falter in his confidence in that high-traditioned Carolina spirit. This victory will go a long way to cleanse college spirit from this stain of disloyalty. It will give a brighter confidence to every team of athletes that represents Carolina. It means that Carolina has safely weathered a critical period in her athletic history.

The men who fought out the way to this victory are: Hasty, Edwards, Calmes, Lindsay, Pember, Hackney, Hanes, Witherington and Lee who pitched both of the games that Carolina won. The man to whom goes more credit than to any one of the players is Chas. A. Clancy, the coach, the man who by his fine ability to teach the science of baseball and by his own fighting courage which he infused into every player was able to put out the best team Carolina has had in the last eight years from a bunch of material that included only one old man, Capt. Hackney.

The past week has been a pleasant break in the springs hard work. Three dances, which brought the largest crowd of beautiful girls to the Hill that has ever attended an Easter dance; the State intercollegiate tennis tournament, which was won by Carolina by heavy odds; and the class stunt of the graduating class, which was by all means the most successful thing of its kind ever pulled off in Chapel Hill, all combined to make a good time for Carolina students, and to cap it all came the victory over Virginia Friday, the telegraphic report of which was heard by about three hundred people in Gerrar Hall. The students now have to settle down for a steady pull until commencement brings final release from the toils of the college year, 1910-11.

WOMEN AT RINGSIDE MAKE MOST NOISE

Tumult Caused When One of the Fair Sex Steps on Another's New Hat.

St. Louis, April 22.—Thirty ringside seats were reserved at the prize fight in Edwardsville, Ill., a suburb, last night, and an attache of the athletic club stood guard over them while the crowd wa sassembling.

Glancing toward the door a few minutes befoer the preliminary bout began he shouted: "There they come," and raised his hands with an "everybody up" gesture. The crowd responded as one man by cutting out the usual ringside line of talk, and rising respectfully, while fifteen women, each accompanied by her husband or escort, walked down to the ringside and took the reserved seats.

As the women passed in review on the way to their seats the men stood rigidly respectful, for many of them knew there would be indignant inquiries when they got home as to what women were there, and they prepared themselves with a mental list.

The main bout was put on with Tommy Maxwell of Hillsboro and Joe Genell of Collinsville boxing at 145 pounds.

When the referee decided in favor of Genell, awarding him the fight on a foul, quiet was restored in the main part o fthe hall, but not among the women. In the excitement one woman had allowed her new spring hat to slip from her lap to the floor, and when they all stood up to see what the referee was going to do about the claim of foul, the woman next to her stood on the fallen hat and mashed it flat.

Stokesdale Wedding.

Sunday morning at the residence of the bride's parents, at Stokesdale, Miss Sarah Matthews became the bride of J. B. Gant, the ceremony being performed by Rev. L. T. Hendren, of the M. E. church. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gant came to Greensboro and spent the day with the groom's brother, M. W. Gant, leaving on No. 35 for a trip north.

Entered Mercantile Establishment.

Sunday night some one entered the grocery store of Tucker & Erwin, South Elm street, and stole a pair of gloves and $2.50 that had been left in the cash drawer. Nothing else was missed. Entrance was effected from the rear of the store.

DYNAMITE CASE CAUSES GREAT STIR

Indianapolis, Ind., April 24.—Detective William J. Burns, who led in the arrest of John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers here last Saturday for complicity in the alleged dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building October 10, last, in which 21 persons were killed, is expected to return to Indianapolis late this afternoon. He went to Tiffin, Ohio, where he confiscated about 400 pounds of dynamite stored at the home of James McManigal, father of Orite McManigal, who, with James W. McNamara, is on his way to Los Angeles in custody of officials. The latter, McNamara, a printer, was captured in Detroit.

More developments are expected here with the return of Burns and it is predicted that more arrests may be made.

It is said that some of the records taken from the offices of the union here in the raid Saturday night will have an important bearing on the cases of the men when they are put on trial. It is said there are a number of receipts, showing that money has been paid to the men under arrest and that the dates of these receipts correspond to the dates of some of the larger explosions and also that these disbursements were not printed in the union's official journal as prescribed by the union's constitution.

Indianapolis labor leaders are loud in their denunciation of John J. McNamara's arrest and the action of the police in spiriting him out of the State. The Central Labor Union meets tonight and it is intimated that strong resolutions on the subject will be adopted.

Leo M. Raphaport, counsel for the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, today secured a writ of replevin in the justice of peace court for the books that were seized by the police Saturday night in the offices of the association in this city. A constable appeared at the grand jury room with the writ, which had been issued against County Prosecutor Baker and Superintendent of Police Hyland, but when the prosecutor told the officer if he attempted to serve the writ he would be in contempt of court, the constable left the building.

Superintendent of Police Hyland was summoned before the grand jury with the books seized Saturday night and an investigation was started by the grand jury. Prosecutor Baker says the investigation will be made along two lines—first, whether the officers of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers had any knowledge of the explosives that were found in the basement of the building where their offices are located, and second, whether the enemies of the iron workers organization had anything to do with the placing of the explosives in the building.

Schedule for the Excursion Train to S. S. Convention

Thursday will be Guilford County Day at the State Sunday School Convention. A special train has been chartered for this day leaving here at nine o'clock in the morning and returning will leave High Point at 10:30 o'clock p. m. This train will stop at Pomona and Jamestown, going and returning. Round trip from Greensboro and Pomona fifty cents, from Jamestown twenty-five cents. Tickets are now on sale at Sykes Drug Company, and Asheboro Street Pharmacy. The superintendents of the different Sunday schools can furnish any one with tickets and they can also be had from any member of the committee in charge of the train. The committee is C. C. McLean, G. H. Miles, M. W. Thompson, C. A. Hines, G. E. Petty and Norman Wills.

Funeral of Mrs. Wyche.

The funeral of Mrs. J. E. Wyche, whose death occurred Saturday afternoon was held from the late residence, 330 West Gaston street, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, conducted by Rev. E. K. McLarty, pastor of the deceased, assisted by Rev. Melton Clark. The interment followed in Green Hill cemetery. A large number of sorrowing friends gathered to pay their past tribute of respect to all that remained of a much loved Christian woman. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful of design.

HIGH COURT MAY SKIP BIG CASES

Special to Telegram.

Washington, April 24.—The Supreme court announced today that a recess will be taken next Monday to May 15th and the term will end May 29. The Standard Oil and Tobacco Company cases may go over, not being heard at this time at all.

Mrs. Pritchard Died Yesterday

Mrs. Olivia B. Pritchett died yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the residence of her stepdaughters, Misses Etta and Maggie Pritchett, 808 Dakota street, at the advanced age of 65 years. The funeral will be held from the late residence this afternoon at 4 o'clock, conducted by the pastor of the deceased, Rev. D. M. Litaker, assisted by Revs. E. K. McLarty and W. F. Staley. The interment will follow in Green Hill cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: B. E. Jones, J. W. Merritt, J. S. Barnes, J. Henry Phipps, R. A. Gilmer, T. A. Glascock.

Mrs. Pritchett was the second wife of the late John A. Pritchett. She was an aunt of Mrs. W. H. Rees, Mrs. R. M. Rees and Mrs. O. F. Pearce and Tom and H. L. Lynch, of this city. She is survived by two brothers and two sisters of Asheville and Hillsboro.

A TRIBUTE OF LOVE.

The Guilford Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy, mourns the passing away of one of its most beloved, ethusiastic, faithful and efficient members—Miss Alice D. Nelson, who on April the fifth entered into rest.

She was a charter member, served faithfully and most acceptably as president of this Chapter at one time and held other offices, as treasurer and secretary. At the time of her death, she was chairman of the monument committee, and was deeply interested in carrying forward this work, which lay very near her heart and for which she worked with untiring energy.

Resolved: That with deep sorrow we mourn our friend, so highly gifted with all the lovely and lovable qualities of perfect womanhood, endowed with fine intellect, wonderful sympathy, broad charity, all the charm and dignity of a true gentlewoman—with a noble devotion to duty, influenced ever by a sweet Christian spirit. Her's was a life inspiring and enduring in its influence, a solace in the knowledge that her death is but a beautiful translation to perfect peace, joy, rest and glory at the Throne of the Most High.

Resolved: That this tribute of love be spread upon our records and a copy be sent with our heartfelt sympathy to the greatly bereaved family.

Mr. S. H. Boyd Thanks Voters

To the Voters of Greensboro:

I want to express my sincere appreciation of the very gratifying vote given me today. I respectfully solicit the support of the citizens on next Tuesday, and assure them, if elected, that I will use my best efforts for a successful administration of the office of Mayor and Commissioner of Public Accounts and Finance.

Respectfully,
S. H. BOYD.

April 24, 1911.

One of the later crimes to be treated in The North American's series of "Pensylvania's Greatest Criminal Mysteries" is the murder of Christian Ranck, of Paradise township, Lancaster county.

Ranck was shot by some person hidden in the cellar of his home. Some small tracks, which might have been those of a woman, were found in the snow the next morning.

Many arrests were made, but no evidence could be found against those persons who were taken into custody, and all of them, they being mostly tramps, were released.

One romantic feature of this crime mystery is that the murder was committed on Christmas eve and that all the surroundings of a happy holiday scene accompanied the frightful tragedy.

The North American is printing one of these Pennsylvania mysteries every Sunday. All of them appear to be interesting to general readers, as well as criminal lawyers, and are certainly worthy of preservation as chapters of criminal history of the state.

This story will appear in the Sunday North American, April 30, 1911. 1t

A Sherlock Holmes Thriller.

The Adventure of the Solitary Cyclist is the title of a New Sherlock Holmes Detective story by Sir A. Conan Doyle, which will be given free in booklet form with Next Sunday's New York World. These are the stories entitled "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," which recently set all Europe agog. No one since Gaborieau and Poe, has equalled Conan Doyle. These are great stories. A new one each Sunday. 1t

TAFT TO NAME TRIPLETS

Parents of a Flock of Babies Give the President a Hard Job.

Washington, April 23.—President Taft today was asked to name triplets born to George W. Duncan and Lida Duncan of Corydon, Ky. Accompanying the request was a photograph of the mother and the babies and an affidavit from the physician who attended Mrs. Duncan to the effect that the infants were bona fide triplets and that the parents had not borrowed an infant for the occasion. The affidavit also set forth that George W. Duncan was the father and that Lida Duncan was his wife and the mother of the triplets. The President is thinking up names.

Gompers Not Hide-bound.

New York, April 24.—President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, has written to the Central Federated Union that he sees no reason why he should not speak on the same stage with Andrew Carnegie at a peace celebration.

Washington, April 24.—Struck on the head with a stone by a playmate, twelve-year-old George Smith lived ten days without pain, and then died suddenly of a fractured skull.

Boyd's Cases Continued.

Frank Boyd was arraigned in Municipal court yesterday morning on the charge of assaulting Eva Evans with a deadly weapon—to-wit: a pistol. Inasmuch as the woman was unable to appear to testify against Frank the case was continued until she can appear in court. Lacy Miles and George Stewart were charged with engaging in an affray. Stewart was fined $5 and costs, while Miles was turned loose. George Hicks was sent to the roads for a month for drunkenness. Several other cases of no consequence were disposed of.

Federal Court in Salisbury.

United States Judge James E. Boyd, his private secretary, E. B. Wells, U. S. Marshal Logan and other court officials have gone to Salisbury to hold federal court. This is the first session of court to be held in the new Federal building there and the opening yesterday was of more than usual interest and was attended with a formal celebration.

THEATRE AND STAGE PEOPLE

Special to The Telegram.
(By JAMES GRANT THURSTON.)

New York, April 23.—A unique performance of "The Merchant of Venice" will be given by blind actors at the Blind Workers' Exhibition, which President Taft will open April 26 at the Metropolitan Opera house. Although this is not their first appearance these blind performers have never been seen outside of Boston. The company is composed of men and women all blind, and is managed bl a blind stage manager. Many of the actors had stage experience before they lost their sight. Rehearsals have been going on for some time to make ready for the Manhattan appearance. on the stage the sightless performers govern their movements, their entrance and exists entirely by distance, and this makes necessary a stage which is exactly similar to the one used in rehearsals. The incidential music will be furnished under the leadership of William Heinrich, a blind musician. Those who have seen these players before say that their work is finished.

Great success attended the theatrical managers benefit performance at the Metropolitan opera house in aid of the families who have suffered by the recent fire at Washington place.

The opera house, was filled and the entrances were held by program sellers under Bijou Fernandez, who realized $400. Miss Fernandez was assisted by Miss Taliaferro, Grace Filkins, Miss Amelia Bingham, Miss Josephine Drake and others.

The entertainment was long and elaborate. The opera singers, in the shape of Emmy Destinn, Alma Gluck, Marie Rappold, Leo Slezak, Antonio Scotti and Dinah Gilley, made welcome appearances.

The third act of "Thais", according to Paul Wilstach, was played on a stage where it has twice been played according to Massenet. Constance Collier, Tyrone Power and Arthur Forrest were the protagonists. The "Donny Did" number from "The Pink Lady" was warmly welcomed. Orville Harrold scored heavily with "Una Furtiva Lagrima."

Christie MacDonald Janis, Norah Bayes and Jack worth, Truly Shattuck, and John McCloskey, Otis Skinner, Blanche Bates and Leo Dietrichstein.

George Evans, Montgomery & Moore, Howard & North, Rooney & Bent, Tempest & Sunshine, Victor Moore, Emma Carus, Lillian Shaw, McCay also volunteered.

A program signed by all participants was sold to George M. Cohan for $350.

Nearly $9,000 was realized for the afflicted families.

Mrs. Annie Yeamans, 75 years young, was given an enthusiastic reception at the Manhattan opera house. They laughed at everything "The Grand Old Lady Of The Stage" said, and applauded everything she did. Mrs. Yeamans told the story about seeing two people read her name on a bill board and one remarked:

"Is she alive yet? She must be one hundred years old."

Then she proceeded to show how lively she could be after attaining three-quarters of a century in years by doing a neat dance as she sang "I Hope I Don't Intrude."

Mme. deNavarro, once the famous actress, Mary Anderson, the most popular figure on the stage in the eighties, is soon to renew her connection with the theater, as an authoress.

In collaboration Mme. de Navarro has written a five act play found on Mr. Hichens' story, "The Garden Of Allah."

The story is of a priest who leaves the monastery, goes out into the world and marries. It will be produced in this country an American having secured the rights therefor.

Having secured control of the Hack ett theatre Henry B. Harris now is master of three playhouses. He will remain at the Hackett and call it the William Harris theater in honor of his father William Harris who is a noted theatrical man. Henry B. owns the Hackett and the Follies Bergere.

The Hackett recently passed out of control of the Shuberts and into the hands of Mr. Harris, who purchased it from Hammerstein two years ago for $450,000. Since then the theater has been operated either by James K. Hackett, who held a lease from Hammerstein, or the Shuberts his sub-lesses.

Many changes will be made in the house. Mr. Harris expects to spend fully $25,000 on the work. The new Follie-Berge, will be operated by Harris in conjunction with Jess L. Lasky.

The managers of the Follies-Berge recently decided that an auction was the only means of distributing the tickets for the premiere with justice to patrons. The sale took place at the Hudson theater.

Work on New York's new Jewish theater will be started soon. The plans have been filed. The building will cost about $250,000. It will be located on East Houston the center of the Ghetto. The front of the building will be occupied as stores and will be seven stories high, while the theater proper will occupy the rear and will be six stories high. The theatre will have an orchestra seating 828 people, with a balcony accommodating 552, and a gallery with a capacity of 500 seats.

Over the theater will be a roof garden, which will accommodate 1,060 people; 700 in the orchestra, 360 in the balcony. This theatre has been leased to Jacob P. Adler, of the Thalia theatre. The enterprise is to succeed that which has been carried on in the Thelia theatre, which for nearly 75 years was known as the old Bowery Theatre.

Frank J. MacKain paid $350,000 at auction for the Thalia a few days ago. The theatre covers a plot 75 feet by 200.

The property was sold by order of the executors of the estate of William Kramer, who owned the noted beer garden known as "The Atlantic" which adjoins the theater.

Impartial.

Professor C. Alphonso Smith once wrote an English grammar. The book was published while Dr. Smith was teaching at the University of North Carolina. One day he received from a farmer a letter containing the following:

"I am glad somebody has written an impartial grammar at last."

Dr. Smith immediately wrote to the farmer asking what he meant by an "impartial grammar." The answer was:

"You give the children this sentence to parse: 'One Confederate killed ten Yankees.' "—New York Post.

Where Honesty Failed.

"You are still having trouble in your search for an honest man?"

"Yes," replied Diogenes. "There are plenty who are scrupulous about business and politics. But I have never yet found a man so honest that he wouldn't try to ring in a portrait taken when he was ten years younger when you ask him for a picture for publication."—Washington Star.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY ENCOURAGES IMPROVED COTTON CULTURE

Atlanta, Ga., April 24.—"To clothe the whole of humanity would require 42,000,000 bales of cotton each year."

This statement was made by President Hobbs, of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, at its recent annual meeting in Boston. Mr. Hobbs said that, of the 1,500,000,000 inhabitants of the world, only 500,000,000 are completely clothed, while 750,000,000 are only partially clothed and 250,000,000 are practically not clothed at all. As civilization advances, the proportion of the partially clothed and the unclothed will decrease, and this, with the increase of population in civilized countries, will call for an increased supply of cotton. The cotton belt of the United States now furnishes fully two-thirds of the world supply of cotton, and, as the demand increases, will be called upon greatly to increase its annual production.

It is a clear understanding of this condition that has led the Southern Railway company to organize a Cotton Culture Department to work in co-operation with the United States Agriculture Department and the agricultural authorities of the Southern States, to keep the cotton production of the South abreast of the demand by bringing about the adoption of those cultural methods which will result in larger average yields per acre, thus increasing the profitableness of cotton growing and leaving surplus lands to be devoted to other crops and the growing of live stock. It is clearly more profitable to a farmer to produce fifty bales of cotton on fifty acres than to produce the same amount on one hundred acres, for he will receive the same amount for his cotton and will have fifty acres for other uses. Under ordinary circumstances, every increase in the average yield of cotton per acre reduces the cost of production per pound and yields the farmer a larger margin of profit between the cost of growing his crop and the selling price.

THE METRICAL CARAT.

New System of Weighing Precious Stones In Europe.

An important change was made in the system of weighing precious stones by the agreement of European jewelers and lapidists which is now in effect.

France, Switzerland, Norway, Roumania, Bulgaria and Spain entered into the agreement to establish a metrical carat which would fit into the metrical system, now so generally used abroad. The old carat of 3.167 grains troy weighed 205.3 milligrams, while the new carat will weigh an even 200 milligrams, or 3.086 grains troy, according to the old system.

The change is being considered in every country where precious stones are articles of commerce, and various European states, in addition to those mentioned above, which have already acknowledged the reform, are about to adopt the metrical carat.

Of course if any of the larger and wealthier nations—England, for instance—were to object to any alteration the confusion would tend to hamper trade, but the change is more than welcome on the continent, where the metrical system has been in use for so many years that the old arbitrary weights are almost forgotten and all measurements have been simplified into a decimal system.—Chicago Tribune.

His Serious Purpose.

"He has a call, you say."

"Yes."

"To what church?"

"Church?"

"Yes. You said he had had a call."

"Yes, but he answered the telephone."

A BUNGLING CENSOR.

The Brilliant Genius That Used to Mangle Plays In Poland.

In 1869 there was a very strict censorship throughout Poland over all plays given in the theaters. It was, of course, very annoying to the actors and sometimes quite ridiculous. Mme. Modjeska in her "Memories and Impressions" says that during the winter of 1869 she was playing in Warsaw and that her actors had a great deal of fun every time a play came from the censor's office.

Every noble sentiment was forbidden. Even some words were found disloyal, among others the word "slave." In one of the melodramas it was cut out and replaced by the word "negro," and the sentence, which ran "He was a slave to his passions," was changed to "He was a negro to his passions."

On another occasion the actor taking the part of a Roman Catholic priest had to say, "I love my country and my people, and I shall never leave them." The words "country" and "people" were changed to "wife and children."

In another play the words "He walked arm in arm with the emperor and whispered in his ear" were changed to "He walked three steps behind the emperor and whispered in his ear."

"These and like blunders became standing jokes among the actors and give an idea of the censorship at the time of my engagement in Warsaw. I am sure that our censor was overzealous in his services to the government and too ignorant of the language to see his absurd mistakes."

Indispensable.

"That banquet tonight can't get along without me."

"You have a pretty good opinion of yourself. Billed for a speech?"

"Oh, no. I was invited to listen."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CLEARED HIS CLIENT.

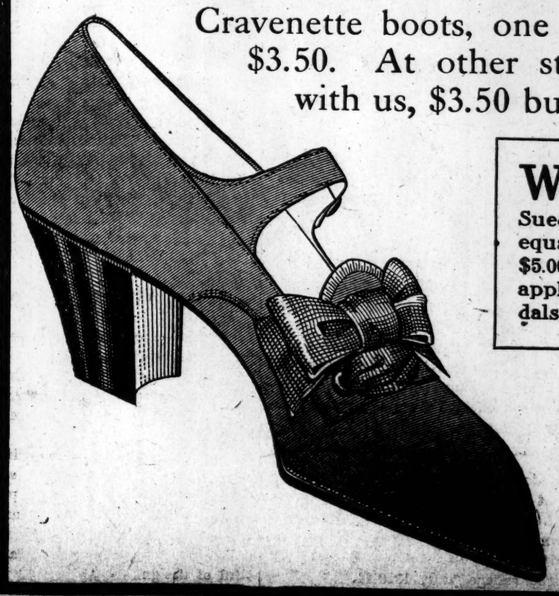
Aaron Burr's Dramatic Accusation In a Murder Trial.

It is undoubtedly true that in former times in all parts of the country it was considered more important and more creditable to save a man's life or liberty than to get a verdict where property only was concerned. These days have passed, however, as far as New York is concerned, and in a lesser degree, possibly, in nearly all the other states, and despite the agitation on the subject they are never likely to return. It is interesting to turn back to the earliest days of the republic and the careers of two lawyers who would have been giants in any age or in any country and who were antagonistic in character and purpose—Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr. Both men accepted criminal as well as civil cases. One of the greatest efforts of Hamilton's life was his appearance for one Crosswell, charged with publishing a scandalous libel upon Thomas Jefferson. The court was divided in its verdict, but the prisoner was never punished.

Aaron Burr, that erratic genius who lacked a balance wheel, is said never to have lost a case in which he alone was counsel. It is also of record that he won a case in which by a queer trick of fate his associate counsel was Hamilton. It was a murder case. The actions and manner of the principal witness against the prisoner seemed to Burr exceedingly suspicious, and it is said that both Burr and Hamilton were undecided in their own minds which was the guilty party—the witness or the prisoner. Hamilton's summing up was perfunctory. Burr began to address the jury when it was nearly dark. The witness for the prosecution was leaning against a pillar. His face was pallid and covered with perspiration. He listened intently to the lawyer. Suddenly Burr seized a large candelabrum, and, throwing the light on the face of the witness, shouted, "Behold the murderer, gentlemen!" The witness turned and rushed from the courtroom and the prisoner was acquitted.—F. P. Ward in Harper's Weekly.

The Very Latest Fad in Women's Footwear

NOTHING has been shown in late years which has proven so popular as the Black Cravenette one strap sailor tie. This imported Cravenette wears better than leather, makes the shoe fit like a glove and is more comfortable than the softest of leathers. We are showing a great variety of the very best Cravenette boots, one strap sailor ties and other styles at $3.50. At other stores this is the $5.00 kind, but with us, $3.50 buys the best.



WE guarantee that the College Woman's Walking Shoe which we sell for $3.50 in Cravenette, Suede, Patent Leather, Gun Metal and Kid is the equal in style, snap, wear and workmanship of any $5.00 woman's shoe sold by our competitors. This applies to the boot as well as oxfords, pumps, sandals and ties, a full line of which we carry in stock.

Don't fail to see our line of one strap sailor ties in patent leather, gun metal, dull kid, and other leathers at $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50.

DISCRIMINATING LADIES.

Enjoy Using Herpicide on Account of Its Distinctiveness.

The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it allays that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpicide effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpicide stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. STATE S. S. ASSOCIATION CONVENTION BEGINS TOMORROW

Annual Session Will be Held in High Point—Meeting Continues Through Friday—Large Number of Delegates Expected—Thursday Guilford County Day.

The Twenty-eighth Annual convention of the North Carolina Sunday School Association will convene in High Point tomorrow afternoon, the sessions to continue through Friday. This promises to be the most largely attended convention in the history of the association and the sessions will be especially notable because of the presence of Marion Lawrence, international secretary, W. N. Hartshorn, chairman of the international executive committee, and many of the foremost Sunday school workers in this State. The music will be inspiring and will be in charge of Charles U. Butler and Mrs. Butler, singers of National fame.

Another feature of the convention and one of local interest will be the excursion from Greensboro on Thursday, carrying five hundred or more workers of the city and county to High Point for a Sunday school parade. The Greensboro people are enthusiastic over this novel feature, this being the first time an excursion was ever run to a Sunday school convention in North Carolina. The Greensboro workers will lead the parade, the State delegates to bring up the rear of the procession. The line of march will be from the passenger station to the auditorium where Marion Lawrance will make an address.

All delegates will be required to pay a registration fee of $1, this entitling them to a seat in the convention, free entertainment while in High Point and a souvenir badge. All visitors will be provided with entertainment at moderate cost and will be permitted to attend the sessions of the convention. All schools are asked to send as many visitors as they can.

There will be four conferences during the convention—on Organized Class Work, County and Township Officers, Teacher Training and Elementary Work. Two will be held on Thursday afternoon and two on Friday afternoon. On Friday morning Marion Lawrance will conduct a round table on Sunday School Problems.

The Verdict.

"Fetch the body," ordered the foreman of a Texas coroner's jury.

The body was laid before them. The jury made a careful examination and questioned the attending surgeon.

"Whar was he shot?".

"Square through the heart."

"Dead in the center o' the heart?"

"Right in the center."

"Jake Daniels."

A dozen witnesses declared that Jake fired the shot, and Jake himself admitted it. The jury consulted softly for some time.

"Well, gentlemen of the jury," said the coroner, "what's your verdict?"

"Waal, jedge," answered the foreman, "we've come to the conclusion that Jake Daniels is the dandiest shoot in these parts—and don't you forget it."

He—Yes, it's very true, a man doesn't learn what happeness is untill he's married!

She—I'm glad you've discovered that at last.

He—Yes;; and when he's married it's too late!—Le Rire.

OVERTAXED.

Hundreds of Greensboro Readers Know What It Means.

The Kidneys are overtaxed;
Have too much to do.
They tell about it in many aches and pains—
Backache, hip pains, headache.
Early symptoms of kidney ills.
Urinary troubles, dropsy, Bright's disease follow.

The statement below shows you what to do.

Mrs. Arthur Causey, Jerusalem St., Randleman, N. C., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and found them excellent in every way. Backache clung to me a long time and made it difficult for me to stoop. I could not remain on my feet for any length of time and often I became so dizzy that I had to catch hold of something to keep from falling. The kidney secretions annoyed me and showed that my kidneys were disordered. When a friend strongly urged me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and I was soon entirely rid of kidney complaint."

REFERENDUM-RECALL GOES TO UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT

Special to Telegram.

San Antonio, Texas, April 24.—The question of referendum and recall as applied in the city of Dallas may take national scope. It appears that Supt. Arthur Lefevre has brought action against the new Dallas city school board in such a manner that it will be passed up by the United States supreme court. The complaint of Lefvre apparently admits that the recent recall election was held in accordance with the provision of the charter. The only contention to be made in the future stages of the litigation will be on the constitutionality of the recall provision. In view of the fact that Senator Bailey of this State has taken such a decided stand against recall and referendum, the course of this litigation will be followed with much interest by people in all parts of the country. In passing upon this the Supreme court of the nation will practically decide whether or not the recall and referendum in the Arizona constitution is in harmony with the constitution of the United States, and also whether or not the people have a right, in the broadest sense, to decide upon what they want. The very essence of recall and referendum is contained in the legal proceedings now pending before the national supreme court.

WHO IS LEE.

Who is the Guy Carlton Lee that is to lecture here on May 1st and 2d, 8:15 p. m, under the auspices of the Barium Springs society in the Smith Memorial building. That is an easy question to answer for every current biographical reference work has the information. Guy Carleton Lee is one of the greatest speakers that the world has produced. He taught English history in Dickinson College, Law in Columbian University and for thirteen years history in the Johns Hopkins University. He has written or edited twenty-six books, among them a twenty volume history of the United States and a ten volume history on women and a single volume history on the Civil War. He has been editor of several large dailies and he had held and holds many officies in educational associations and societies. He is at present Director of the National Society for Broader Education, the great society which is working today throughout America and directs its efforts to the education of the adult.

Dr. Lee has a charming personality, is a brilliant conversationalist and a speaker of extraordinary charm. The auspices under which he comes have placed us under a debt of gratitude to them for the opportunity to hear this great speaker.

AFTER GRIP

Look Out for Trouble.

The after-effects of the Grip are apt to be serious but a normal healthy condition may be restored in a surprisingly short time by Vinol.

Watertown, Wis.—"After a severe attack of the Grippe my system was in a very weakened, nervous and rundown condition. I began taking Vinol with the very best results and in a short time I began to feel like an entirely different person and I am better and stronger than I have been for years." Adelaide Gamm. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

We have never sold in our store such a valuable strength creator and health rtseorer for the convalescent, the weak and run-down as Vinol, and we ask people in this vicinity to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim for it. His Heirloom.

"An heirloom," explained the farmer's wife to her 13-year-old boy, "is something that has been handed down from father to son, and in some instances is greatly prized."

"I'd prize these heirlooms I'm wearing," remarked the youngster, "a good deal more if they wasn't so long in the legs."

Fortune Telling

Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health.

The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dross.

Womanly health when lost or impaired may generally be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This Prescription has, for over 40 years, been curing delicate, weak, pain-wracked women, by the hundreds of thousands and this too in the privacy of their homes without their having to submit to indelicate questionings and offensively repugnant examinations.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence held as sacredly confidential. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Great Family Doctor Book, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition—1000 pages, answers in Plain English hosts of delicate questions which every woman, single or married, ought to know about. Sent free, in plain wrapper to any address on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only, or in cloth binding for 31 stamps.

THE trouble with some of our struggling fellow creatures is they are always trying to get a square deal for themselves while being utterly indifferent about the other fellow.

Most of us spend so much of our time undoing today the things that we did yesterday that we get a mental vertigo.

When art gets a black eye a strenuous application of beefsteak to the stomach helps a lot.

Knocking is the easiest trade known to modern man.

If you are troubled with self conceit acquire a few relatives by marriage.

There are some things that are too true to be very good.

Any place will do if there is room enough in it to strive for a better one.

The matter is very serious when women won't speak of each other.

Be sure that you are going to get ahead, then make it right.

Everybody has a special brand guaranteed to work every time of the perfectly harmless kind of lie.

There is little satisfaction in baiting the man who won't roar back.

For Variety.

"Did the committee whitewash him?"

"Yes; with shoe blacking."

Getting Them Mixed.

"Who is that insignificant looking little man walking around the store as though he were afraid of everybody?"

"That is the proprietor."

"The owner indeed. I had that large man with the massive brow and the overload of dignity picked as the proprietor."

"He is the floorwalker."

"Is the owner afraid that the floorwalker will discharge him?"

"Not exactly, but he doesn't want to take any chances."

Not Skillful.

"Can your new maid cook?"

"Yes, but she lacks judgment."

"How is that?"

"She cooks all the salt."

"Cooks all the salt?"

"Yes; puts it in the soup, you know, and seems to think that the potatoes don't need any cooking."

Proof of Superiority.

"That was a beautiful lecture you gave, doctor."

"Did you like it?"

"Yes, but I couldn't understand it."

"That is the beauty of it. If you could have you wouldn't have regarded me as any smarter than you are."

Two of a Kind.

"Did you enjoy yourself in Europe last summer?"

"Very much."

"I didn't know you were over. I was just making a bluff."

"I wasn't. So was I."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

SOME men don't say no when their wives ask for money because they know that no is no answer to the request.

The ambition of many a boy has gone up in cigarette smoke.

Don't strike a man when he is down, for, like truth, he may rise again.

A blaze of genius frequently leaves but the cold ashes of oblivion.

Money serves and rules every man.

It takes so much of the time of the most of us to make a living that we can't use it when we get it made.

Lovemaking is a thing that seems so serious in the coming and so light in the passing.

Some people are positively discourteous when you chance to interest yourself in their affairs.

When you rip the patches of pride and position off the character of some people the whole thing falls down.

Fashion's Latest.

The harem skirt is coming in,
So we must grin and bear it,
For women though it is a sin,
Are bound that they will wear it.
No use to try to talk it down
With sermon, screed or letter.
It's bound to be the coming gown,
Or gowns perhaps is better.

The modest maiden of the past
Whose trains ran into inches
Now, in a different pattern cast,
From it no longer flinches.
Her legs (or limbs—your pardon, please—
Perhaps that is politer)
Will like the freedom and the ease.
The trousers will delight her.

Of course it isn't coming in
Without a struggle bitter.
The skirt, although it cannot win,
Will never be a quitter.
But progress wields a ruthless hand,
And, though the case distresses,
The new heroic female band
Will look with scorn on dresses.

Then hail, thou winsome trouserette!
Though in our hearts we hate it,
We may at once prepare to get
In shape to tolerate it,
For woman always has her way,
Though spoken to and chided.
If that's what fashion has to say
She'll wear her skirt divided.

Expanded the Idea.

"You must fletcherize, Mabel, and then you will be healthy."

So little Mabel fletcherized as long as her mother was looking and did very well for one of her years.

Then she went over to a neighbor's and tried to explain all about it.

"Now, Willie," she said, "look at me. You fletch your eyes and I will fletch my mouth."

Natural Conclusion.

"Say."

"Yes?"

"Did you notice that the scientists have declared that conceit is but a mild form of insanity?"

"No. Is that so?"

"That's what they say."

"Your house must be a sort of lunatic asylum then, isn't it?"

One Way of Looking at It.

"His wife is a milliner."

"Is that so?"

"And his daughter is a dressmaker."

"Well, that man ought to be rich."

"Why?"

"Why? Goodness, man, wouldn't it make any man rich not to have to pay the milliner and the dressmaker?"

Warned.

"You must not go into the library."

"And why not?"

"My papa is in there thinking."

"I will not disturb his thoughts."

"You better not take a chance. I guess you never heard my papa think out loud."

A VILLAGE TALE.

Miss Elviro Eunice Parker.
Single lady—by desire—
Years ago was quite determined
What she'd do in case of fire.
Thus she reasoned: "I would dress me
Wholly without perturbation,
Gather up my chief belongings,
See to Tabitha's salvation,
From its hook take down the parrot,
Cheery partner of my labors;
Then I'd raise my chamber window
And alarm the sleeping neighbors."

Well, one night a fire started
As Miss Parker slept. The smoke her
Chamber filled, and presently the
Suffocating smell awoke her.
Did she do as she had reasoned?
No; she quite forgot her scheming,
And with shrieks she roused the neighbors
From the sweetest of their dreaming.
She threw vases from the window.
Tabitha her own salvation
Had to seek out, while the parrot
Used a word that ends with -ation.
When the neighbors came they found a
White robed figure wildly screaming.
All the fire was soon extinguished,
But she kept on loudly calling:
"Fire! Fire! Fire! Fire!"
In a manner most appalling.
And the neighbors, having stopped her,
When they finally departed
Left Miss Parker, single lady,
In the ruins broken hearted.

Settling a Bill.

When Andrew Jackson lived at Salisbury, N. C., he once attended court at Rockford, then the county seat of Surry, and left without paying his bill, which was duly charged up against him on the hotel register, which seems to have been the hotel ledger at that time, and so stood for many years. When the news of the victory of the 8th of January, 1815, was received in this then remote section the old landlord turned back the leaves of the register, took his pen and wrote under the account against Andrew Jackson, "Settled in full by the battle of New Orleans."

She Meant Well.

The late Sir Wilfrid Lawson, the rigid apostle of temperance, while on a week end visit made the acquaintance of a sharp young lady of seven, to whom, on leaving, he said: "Now, my dear, we have been talking some time. I am sure you have no idea who I am."

"Oh, yes, I have," the little missy replied. "You are the celebrated drunkard."—London Graphic.

QUAKERS WON FROM FARMERS

Guilford Defeated A. & M. by Score of Three to One at Cone Park Yesterday---Wake Forest Plays Elon Tomorrow.

In a good exhibition of the National sport at Cone park yesterday afternoon the Quakers defeated the Farmers by the score of three to one. The scoring was done in the first inning. A. & M. scored their only tally by a two-bagger and a single. After this only six men got on bases. Guilford's tallies were made on an infield hit, a base on balls, a single, an error and a wild pitch. After that only six men succeeded in getting on the first station.

After the first Shore allowed only four scattered hits, while three singles were secured off Roberson, the Farmer twirler. The terrible left hander fanned an even dozen players, while Shore caused five Farmers to use the willow in vain. Each tea mwas credited with an error in the initial inning and two were marked up against the players on each nine during the remaining innings.

How the runs were made:

A. & M. Farmer singles and goes to second on error of the leftfielder. Brown flies out to right. Farmer is caught off second, catcher to short. Hartsell drives out one good for two sacks. Roberson dishes out a single and scores the only run of the game. Patton fans.

Guilford. Stewart gets an infield hit and goes to second on error of first. Thomson walks. Doak fans. Benbow singles and Stewart scores. Benbow going to second on the throw in to catch Stewart. Thomson and Benbow score on a wild pitch. Davis and Nelson fan.

Greenville Expects Cashion to Prove Best Pitcher in League.

J. C. Cashion, star pitcher of the Davidson college team, will report to the city Tuesday and will probably pitch the opening game of the league season. The big fellow is expected to prove the star of the league this season.

Cashion has pitched practically all of the games played by Davidson College thus far and has shown up in brilliant form. He is expected to have his best year this year.

A Charlotte paper predicts that Cashion will prove the best pitcher in the league. Cashion is not only a good pitcher but a good outfielder as well and is some class as a slugger. He was given a short tryout by the local club last season but at that time had not had sufficient experience.

This year he is thought to be ripe, however.—Greenville Piedmont.

"Will you do things?" he asked," deny self, sacrifice, suffer, if need be, for the souls of others for Jesus' sake." The organization that puts forth all its efforts to advance its own interests is not doing real work. Be up and doing and do that which will benefit others and draw them into the fold of Christ. "Let Jesus be your all in all," he concluded.

The meeting Sunday afternoon was called to order by D. E. Henderson, of Newbern, president of the State Baraca Association, and he made a short talk, stating that it was decided less than two months ago to hold the Baraca and Philathea convention separate from the State Sunday School Association convention. We have 600 delegates with less than two months notice, what will the attendance be next year when we have a year's notice he asked. He then threw several bouquets at the Greensboro Baracas and Philatheas for the cordial reception shown the visitors and highly complimented Miss Flossie Byrd, State Philathea president, for her work in arranging the details of the convention.

Miss Byrd then introduced Miss Henrietta Heron, of Elgin, Ill., who made an address. In her remarks Miss Heron brought out the thought that Baracas and Philatheas should take the suggestion "what would Jesus like to have me to do" and, fixing their thoughts on high ideals, strive to follow in the pathway marked by the footsteps of the Son of God. Many beautiful thoughts were brought out by quotations from the four four gospels, many of the works being spoken by Christ while on earth. And as we should live close to Christ as individuals our lives as class organizations should be equally as close in his footsteps, she said. The necessity of prayer in the class room was forcibly brought out as was the necessity of a spirt of friendship and welcome to all members of the class and visitors.

"Friendship is a wonderful thing," she said, "but to be a friend is still more wonderful." Faith was another essential for Christian workers and the speaker urged for a faith as exemplified by Jesus Christ. In closing the speaker urged that the Baraca and Philathea workers give of their time, their thoughts and their talents to the cause they represent. She assured them that they would be repaid fourfold for all effort put forth in the Master's cause.

At the close of Miss Heron's address Rev. Mr. Crosland was introduced.

Special music was rendered by the church orchestra and choir. A quartet number was especially enjoyed.

Resolutions.

The following resolutions were read at the conclusion of the convention and adopted by a rising vote:

"We desire to express our sincere thanks to all who have in any way contributed to the success of this great convention, and wish to make special mention as follows:

"To the Baraca and Philathea unions of Greensboro; to the churches and other organizations of this good city, for their very cordial invitation to hold our convention here; to the entertainment committee and the good people of Greensboro who so generously opened their homes to us and have so royally provided for us during our stay here; to Miss Henrietta Heron of Elgin, Ills., for her kindness in coming to us at this time and for her valuable help; to the Rev. Edward S. Crosland for his most excellent sermon on Sunday afternoon and to Rev. Plato Durham for his inspiring address at the close of our convention; to the railroads for reduced rates to the convention; and to the newspapers of Greensboro and other cities of the State for aid in advertising the convention and for reports of the same."
